ATTORNEY SAYS JOSEPH VIOLA OWES $100,000 TO 20 CLIENTS

Estimate Given at Creditors' Meeting to See What Can Be Salvaged From Defunct Realty Firm.

An attorney for Joseph Viola, a real estate dealer who is facing a $9790 bad check charge, has told Viola's creditors that he owes about $100,000 to 20 customers, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

The figures reportedly were given by John Grossman at a meeting of creditors Thursday night at Viola's office, 3500 Hampton avenue.

Grossman was quoted as saying Viola's assets were negligible in comparison with his debts and consisted principally of possibly a $15,000 equity in his home at 5962 Hilgard place and about $5000 in office fix-

It was decided at the meeting that Selvaggi, on behalf of the creditors, would make an finformal inspection of Viola's books starting Monday.

If the examination indicates an appreciable amount of assets, court action might be started for a receivership to conserve the assets and make equitable distribution to creditors, Selvaggi said.

Another means of paying elaimants might be by private assignment to an individual who would operate similarly to a receiver, but without the court and other costs entailed by a receivership Selvaggi said.

"I certainly don't see any point in a receivership now, when we don't actually know whether there will be any assets to conserve," Selvaggi added.

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 7—
President Eisenhower heckled from the grandstand yesterday as the White House correspondents tangled with a team of Secret Service agents in a wild softball game.

He watched the first 2½ innings of the five-inning game, which the Secret Service won, 12 to 4, and he apparently enjoyed himself hugely. He seemed a little partial to the Secret Service men, who are charged with guarding his life. OPPOSE MAYOR'S PROPOSAL FOR REVISIONBY FREEHOLDERS Propose Instead That Aldermen Frame Measure, Although Adopting 'Hands Off' Resolution.

Democratic politicians at a meeting of the party's city central committee last night decided to drop their proposed raid on the city civil service system, in an attempt to turn aside public pressure for Mayor Raymond R. Tucker's charter freeholders bill, the Post-

Dispatch was told today. It was the overwhelming opinion of the Democratic ward leaders that the present city charter should be revised by amendments submitted by the Board of Aldermen, instead of through a board of citizen-freeholders as favored by the Mayor.

The committee issued a state-

Mayor.

The committee issued a statement at the close of its two-hour special meeting at Hotel Jefferson, expressing a "hands off" policy on Tucker's bill calling for the election of 13 free-holders March 67 to draft a new charter, which is pending before the Aldermen.

Action at Closed Meeting.

However, at the closed meeting, the city committee members strongly urged that the charter be revised; ander amendments proposed by the aldermanic legislation committee, rather than by the freeholder method.

Earlier this week, several Democratic aldermen reported they had been urged by their committeemen to vote for the Mayor's charter bill. But these committee members were either absent or silent in the face of the overwhelming opposition at the meeting last night.

The committee also adopted a resolution indorsing United States Senator Stuart Symington as Missouri's "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic nomination for President this year. The statement praised Symington's public record, and pledged the committee to work in support of the Symington favorite son movement.

Longest Flight Is 2900 Miles-Vast Ice FRENCH CABINET MESSAGE'S TONE Cap Recorded on Aerial Maps for First Time.

> McMURDO SOUND IN THE MANACTIC, Jan. 7 (AP)—Navy pilots of Operation Deep Freeze have completed their third flight in a series of exploratory missions over towering plateaus of the Antarctic never before seen by man.
> As a result, much of the white curtain hanging over-vast unknown areas of the Antarctic quadrant facing Australia has been punctured and thousands of miles of completely uncharted, forbidding ice cap now are recorded on aerial maps.
> The Iwin-engined Neptune which set its skis down on McMurdo Sound's ice yesterday completed what is believed to be the longest flight ever made to the ground trip on the world's highest plateaus. They were focced to fly only 500 feet above the ice, because the crew had no xygen as a result of a leak. By SAUL PETT

In the more practical and decisive sense, however, the program outlined in that message has very great inherent appeal to the Democrats and the President's loss of Democratic personal sympathy is not likely to be accompanied by an equivalent loss of Democratic voting support.

In sum, he is as likely as he was before the message to evoke heavy Democratic support in many showdowns.

All this was the consensus today of men intimately placed to know the inner responses of the Democrats, particularly in the Senate,

INQUIRY IN TAX SCANDALS MAY BE BASED AGAIN SACHS CASE

Investigation Resumed Under Direction of Wyllys Newcomb -Grand Jury Not Yet Recalled.

Investigation of tax scandals was resumed here today, following a holiday recess, with the arrival last night of Wyllys Newcomb, New York attorney and head of a Justice Department team directing a grand jury in-

Additional phases of the income tax evasion case of Irving Sach, president of Shu-Stiles Inc., St. Louis shoe brokerage firm, may be presented to the federal grand jury, the Post-Dispatch learned. Matthew J. Connelly and Theron Lamar Caudle, former officials of the Truman Administration, and Harry I. Schwimmer, who was attorney for Sachs, were indicted here last month as a result of the Sachs investigation.

The indictment, returned Dec. I charged the three defendants with "willfully, knowingly and unlawfully conspiring, with Irving Sachs to defraud the United tates." Basis of the charge was the handling of the case, which resulted in a $40,000 fine for Sachs, who was spared a prison term on grounds of ill health. Sachs pleaded guilty in 1951 of evading $128,721 in income taxes.

Mental Patient About Whom Peiping Complained Says He Was Treated Well.

Liu Yung-Ming, a Chinese Improperly Influmental patient who is being deported in response to a complaint by the Communist Peiping Government, left St. Louis by plane today for San Fran-cisco, en route to Hong Kong.

and Cpl. George R. Wood, alleged the circuit attorney and his assistants exceeded their legal power and authority in the investigation. Their conduct deprived the defendants of their legal rights, it was said.

All of the defendants, who are under suspension from their positions in the police department, are charged with accepting bribes from brothel operators. Wood, in addition, is charged with perjury. The trials have been set for Feb. 6.

Among matters cited in the motions was a dispute between Dowd and former grand jury foreman Charles F. Ford. It was alleged that Dowd acted improperly in the affair,

He does not speak English fluently but he was pleasant and friendly in the few phrases he did manage, saying Farmington was "a pretty place" and that his "partners" there were "quite OK—quite OK."

H: appeared to be in good health physically, but a bit underweight. He said he was "pretty tired," but otherwise felt fine.

Henry Colarelli, officer in charge of the Immigration Service here, who is going with him to San Francisco, said Liu's improvement was such that he would have been released from the hospital last week if the matter of deportation had not been brought up.

Liu said he knew nothing of his government's effort to get him returned.

The United States started trying to deport the man in 1931, but the British government would not issue a visa for him even to pass through Hong Kong, indicating that it would not like to take the risk of his remaining there.

Today he said he looked for remaining his properties of the property of the

As a matter of fact, the Immigration Service reported, his visa for Hong Kong is transit and his destination is the Chi-nese mainland, but he was al-lowed to assume that he was going to remain in Hong Kong.

pleaded guilty of sale and possession of narcotics before United States District Judge Rubey M. Hulen.
Higginbotham, 20 years old, Negro, had been on parole from a five-year larceny sentence he received in circuit court last Jan. 14. Police arrested him last month as a suspect in another larceny case and his parole was revoked.
The federal court sentence will run consecutively with the 5-year larceny sentence from circuit court, Judge Hulen ordered.

Association Committee, However, Opposes Bill That Would Curb Prosecutor.

Use of a hidden microphone by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd or other prosecuting officials to record conversations in their offices was condemned as improper today by T. Hartley Pollock, president of the Bar Association of St. Louis. At the same time, however, he an-nounced that the Bar Associa-

"Speaking only as a member of the bar and a citizen," Pollock declared in reply to a question about his own views, "it is my sincere conviction that the use of hidden microphone devices in the office of a public official such as the circuit attorney is contrary to my ideals of the proper conduct of such public officers in a democracy."

Members of the Republican State Finance Committee will meet here Thursday with State Chairman Perry Compton to select a successor to Roscoe C. Hobbs, who has submitted his resignation as chairman of the party fund-raising group.

The Bar Association was asked to study the pending bill by its author, Alderman William A. Stolar (Rep.), Twenty-eighth ward. The association's criminal justice committee concluded that the bill should not be enacted, but took no position on the propriety of such use of wire recorders, Pollock emphasized.

Some of the committee members held that the aldermen lack authority to pass an ordinance restricting powers of public officials whose duties are determined by the state, Others felt that such a law would un-duly hamper police investiga-

A total of $60 and a quantity of narcotics was stolen by two men in a holdup of a drug store at 602 South Sixth street, East St. Louis, last night, Arthur Nurdin, owner of the store, reported to police.

Nurdin said the men, both Negroes, took $30 from the cash register and $30 from the cash microphone in a lamp on his desk and had connected it to a tape recorder in the closet of an adjoining office.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Advice From a Motorist

To the barns of the Post-Dispatch:

The slaughter on the highways of Black Christmas of 1955 certainly gave many of us pause to reflect on our own driving habits. Having just rejurned from a 4500-mile trip on our western highways, a few driving ideas that are not usually seen in print might be worth consideration. First, with the high speed of present day cars, it is almost impossible to stop in a short distance. So it is usually best to remove your foot from the gds piedal when approaching intersections, going over the rest of hills, and going over narrow bridges and curves.

It also is advisable to slow down for intersections with electric signals, as it is never a good idea to depend on the courtesy or the alerts.

Good Sense on Taxes

President Eisenhower's State-of-the-Union message appears to have put a damper on congressional talk of tax cutting, and in the present state of the national economy that is a good thing. So long as prosperity flourishes on the borderline of inflation it makes sense, as the President urged, to maintain taxes at current rates until the budget is balanced and until at least some reduction in the public debt has been

This fiscal policy represents a considerable change of position. Last year the President in his budget message argued against tax cuts on much the same ground, but held out the hope that Congress in 1956 might "consider enacting a general, though moderate, reduction in taxes." Evidently his financial advisers have taken a new look at the situation and decided that present circumstances do not warrant such a hope. The circumstances may, of course, look different four or five months hence.

Administration policy also seems to have changed on the question of debt reduction. In 1954, when the Republicans controlled Congress, the Administration permitted tax cuts of some $7,400,000,000 to go into effect although the asury was then running a deficit and part of the tax cut had to be made up for by bor-rowing money. Again last year, Secretary Humphrey was saying that debt reduction would have to wait on a basic change in the world situation, and that a tax cut should come first.

Everybody who benefited from it would of welcome lower taxes. But if the result were to push the boom over the hump into gal loping inflation, nobody would benefit. So the Administration's new disposition to put debt reduction first is sound so long as the boom

To carry out the Administration policy, Congress will have to enact legislation postponing for the third time the scheduled reduction in excise taxes and corporation income taxes, will have to refrain from enacting legislation to reduce personal income tax rates. The first will be easier to do than the second, as experience

Even in 1954 when taxes had already been reduced $7,400,000,000, members of Congress up for re-election insisted on a chance to vote for an additional income tax cut introduced one plan and the Democrats another but fortunately enough non-candidates in both parties voted against both bills to defeat them.

This year there has been no tax cut and the pressure for one may be expected to rise as the election come's closer. As one Congressman put it, "Come lune there won't be so many statesmen around as there

It will be pleasant, therefore, to see his name back up on the hostelry that stands beside Lindell Boulevard, on the way to the Highway of the King.

Half-a-Loaf Is Not Enough

In view of President Eisenhower's prediction, was Sullivan says she will ask the National Park Service to include completion of the riverton's memorial in its 1957 budget. She says that she also will introduce a bill appropriating $5,000,000. for this purpose. Good!

It is high time that the most dramatic project in St. Louis be pushed off dead center. In conpenditures were evened up. Cities like Philadelphia, however, took no such attitude and received federal funds even though they had less of a claim than St. Louis. After all, this city did, as part of a municipal-national agreement, acquire the riverfront area and clear it for the national monument.

So it is to be hoped that, in renewing its plea for performance of contract, St. Louis will not fall into a new blunder. Why ask an appropriation of only $5,000,000? Originally it was under stood that the federal share would be much greater than that; and the general rise in prices in the intervening years certainly has not lowered the cost of the project. Surely St. Louis is not minded to settle for an insignificant park where there should be a splendid symbol of the Gateway to the West.

Investigators Not Above the Law An important stride toward preventing abuse of the congressional investigative power was made when United States District Judge Railey Aldrich, an Eisenhower appointee, dismis-contempt charges brought by Senator Joseph McCarthy against Leon J. Kamin, formerly science research assistant at Harvard. Kamin's counsel. Judge Aldrich ruled that the McCarthy subcommittee had never been empowered to investigate anything other than government operations. So questions put to Kamin-about a private plant were "beyond the scope of its granted authority." This does not mean, of course, that Congress may not investigate matters outside the governmental structure. But it does mean that a group such as that headed by the Wisconsin Republican must stick to the area assigned to it. Such a committee may not pitch its tent on any site that appeals to its chairman, and there start a three-ring circus. Judge Aldrich's emphasis on committee jurisdiction makes his decision a more important guide in this general category of cases than the simultaneous over-ruling of a conviction of Louis Weinstock, New York Communist, by the United States Court of Appeals in Washington since the latter was based on rather narrow technical procedures. Even if investigators profess to be concerned about sabotage or subversion, they are expected to respect the requirements of he law. Since congressional authority is so wide, this is as it should be. The state may not wan-tonly infringe on the citizen since that violates the very essence of self-government. In short a democratic state is not above the law:

Looking Ahead One Step

Mayor Tucker's bill for the election of charter freeholders on March 6 could attract a fairly substantial majority in the Board of Aldermenincluding possibly the votes of a few ward bosses' who are covertly opposed to even the mere chance of reform.

The Democratic City Central Committee has declined to take any position in the matter, contending it is not within the committee's province to tell the Aldermen how they should While it is disappointing that so influential a body would be unwilling to back this worthwhile measure, still the Aldermen are free to vote according to reason and conscience.

Friends of the proposal naturally will support on its merits. And if a majority of the Aldermen feel moved to vote yea for this reason it would be quite a triumph for the cause of good government in St. Louis. Certainly no Alderman can plead ignorance of the arguments that have been advanced in support of the bill.

As should be crystal clear to all the Aldermen the 41-year-old charter needs rewriting in order to eliminate costly overlapping and duplication within the municipal layer of government. It needs rewriting in order to fuse the municipal government with the city's so-called "county" government in the interest of efficiency and economy. And it needs rewriting in the interest of expanding the city's power to rule itself.

Other Aldermen who can be expected to sup port the call for freeholders are those who made unequivocal public promises to that effect in last spring's election. Several others also made promises indicating they were not entirely unreceptive to the proposal. Even Aldermen who covertly oppose the idea of freeholders might be expected to support the Mayor's bill. The pressure of public opinion in this matter is growing and it can be expected to grow. One way for such an Alderman to get out from under is to bow to the pressure. This will be easy to do since no real "harm" will be done. The election of freeholders is not the same thing as a new charter.

In fact, it is only the first step. Once the Al-dermen call the election, men and women of integrity will have to be persuaded to offer them selves as candidates, and then they will have to

While no one knows what the Aldermen will do when they meet next Friday, friends of charter reform ought to be operating on the assumption that the Aldermen will do what is right and call the election. That being so, the procharter group ought to be preparing for what could be the most important step-the selection and election of those who will serve as freeholders and actually draft the charter.

BARE FEET IN THE PALACE: by Agnes Newton Keith. (Little, Brown, 370 pgs., 35.)

What are the characteristics which contribute to success and happiness in the life of those, who carry the white man's gays into daraway places? From a mundane point of view perhaps a strong stomach is the prime requisite, but on a higher-plane enthusiasm for ways that are strange, tempered by sensitivity and respect, is important.

Agnes Newton Keith has been following her husband Harry to the foreign lands where his job as a forestly expert has taken him for many years, During that time she has managed to make not only literary capital of her experiences, but a life rich in interest and enjoyment. Her first book, "Land Below the Wind," was an account of her life in Borneo, and it was a happy and engaging book. From her experiences as a war prisoner emerged "Three Came Home"; following the family's return to the Orient after the war "came" White Man Returns," the latter two memorable for Mrs. Keith's lack of resentment towards her captors.

Now, with "Bare Feet in the Palace," appears the story of the Keith famist. Agnes Newton Keith Philippine Islands, It contains, as Mrs.

Agnes Newton Kaith Interplate Lands, Leith's readers might expect, and as one of her detractors prophesied, chatty accounts of the doings of her cook, her houseboy and her driver, coupled with admiring descriptions of her friends, both native and foreign. But overshadowing these anecdotes is the author's appreciation for the gropings of a young nation towards a peaceful way of life in the democratic manner. Her story of election night in the Philippines, of staying close by her radio through the night to catch reports from outlying districts, appeals for help from voters who were being intimidated into staying away from the polls and into staying away from the polls and her jubilation towards dawn when the tension lessens and election day is suc-cessfully completed, has the quality, as she suggests, of a watch by a sickbed. She feels that the crisis is over and She rees that the crisis is over and the patient will live and we must re-joice with her. With the election of Magsaysay, the people can come into possession of their inheritance; the palace, hitherto abode of the privileged, will now know the tread of the people.
Incidental to the theme of the book, but a source of gratification to those who have followed the fortunes of the Keith family, is the story of young George, who has shared in the experiences of his parents. George, too, one feels, is the stuff of which pioneers are made. George can eat, and has learned to like, balut, the fertile chicken egg, boiled hard just before it batches, and priced by some as a delicacy. The inference is that George must

The inference is that George must have a strong stomach and an adventurous spirit. And George refuses to stay safely on his side of the fence, playing only with other boys of his own color and social status. His grearious spirit, similar to his mother's insists upon opening wide the gates so he can share with his friends, but also so that they may share with him. It may be that this is not incidental to but a central part of Mrs. Keith's thesis.

Parity for the farm family and a free market for the big-time agricultural operator, would seem to be reasonable goals—even if someone is going to rise soon and start hoffering "socialism" at the idea. As Fred V. Heinkel of Columbia, president of the Missouri Farmers Association, told the Senate agricultural committee at its Hutchinson, Kan., hearing: "Since we believe strongly that the family-sized farm should be preserved for the benefit of our society, we believe that a limit should be set on gross sales of farm products for which parity prices are to be provided. Any production above that limit should be allowed to Shotguns and the Starling Misance way to rid cities of the starling nulsance. And a nuisance they are. Too frequently, the starling's contribution to municipal dirt is overlooked in the sour humor of a situation in which flocks of ugly alien birds appear to be taking over a downtown business community. Starlings aren't funny to building owners, storekeepers or the thousands who must run the starling gauntlet nightly. Facades of downtown buildings are streaked with filth. Sidewalks are dirtied nightly. Every known device has been used here in Providence to drive.

In Cincinnati, the S.P.A.C. made a fuss about the shotgun solution to the starling problem but gave up the fight because the city has clear legal authority to do whatever is necessary to eliminate bird nuisances. The Audubon Society also protested but gave up even sooner than the S.P.A.C., it's reported from Ohio. And the protests were outbalanced by cheers of property-owners, pedestrians and molorists.

News of the Churches in the St. Louis Area

Lutherans in America after three centuries still are seeking unity among themselves. There are 16 separate Lutheran bodies in the United States, and at present several of them are carrying on discussions in the hope of bringing about greater unity.

One of the established means of spreading Lutheran doctrine and church history is the annual Knubel-Miller Lectures to be given here next week. Now in its eleventh year, this series will be held for the first time in St. Louis.

The Rev. Dr. Bergendoff will speak three times Thursday, at 9 and 10:20 a.m. There will be time for discussion after each lecture.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—
Unless another major carthquake hits San Francisco, major college basketball's 19-year-old winning-streak record has just 15 more days to live.
The 39-game string of successes was set by Long Island University in 1935-37. Seton Hall matched it in 1939-41.
San Francisco's top-ranked Dons figure to tie it next Fri.

Pistons on the star squad are Larry Foust, George Yardley and Mel Hutchins, three big reasons for the Fort Wayne team's success last spring in the playoffs and for the Pistons' No. 1 standing today in the Western race. The third-place Hawks are only three and a half games from the top position they held earlier in the season, but they're also dangerously close to the cellar. Too close for comfort.

After tonight the Hawks will play five straight games on foreign courts before returning home for a Sunday night game Jan. 15.

Sumner High could be excused if it considered itself to-day well on the road to the Public High basketball championship because anytime you beat the defending champion on successive weeks you must have a pretty strong team.

James Price's Bulldogs repeated their 55-51 triumph over the Bluejackets in the league tournament final a week ago with a 52-51 victory over Tom Stanton's athletes last night as the schools resumed their penschools resumed their penhustling senior guard who can drive to the basket with the best of them, gave Beaumont a lift of six points in the first meeting against Summer and last night he almost pulled a victory out of the lost column with his charges.

Beaumont matched points all through the first quarter when the score was tied on the even numbers, until it was 10-10 at the quarter. The struggle continued through 12-12, 14-14 and 16-16, but then Summer pulled away on goals by Al Abram and Joe Rycraw. It was 27-22 Sumner at the intermission.

The Jackets, who were not getting particularly good shots, made only 11 goals in 36 attempts in the first half as compared to 12 in 32 for Sumner. In the third quarter Beaumont dropped farther behind as the Bulldogs outscored the 1955 champions, 14 to 10. University City Nips Kirkwood In League Game

By John J. Archibald
University City, having solved its main weakness of last season—its inability to score frequently when big Wilbur Marsh was covered—looks more and more like the powerhouse of the Suburban League basketball race today. The way the Indians are going now, who is going to beat titem?

Last night U. City ran all over another of the teams that was figured as a contender for the Suburban title, walloping Kirkwood, 69 to 51, in one of six opening league games. In their other most recent game the Indians burled Maplewood, 72 to 45, to win a Normandy tournament championship.

Coach Lloyd Brewen's University City team was probably shooting a little hotter against Kirkwood than it normally will, but the Indians could have been fat less accurate and still have won easily. Reserves saw considerable action in the last been fat less accurate and still have won easily. Reserves saw considerable action in the last quarter. An indication of just how much U. During a series of congressional investigations going back seven years. Miss Bentley, who said she had been a Communist courier, testified Taylor had belonged to a Red espionagering within the Government during World War II.

Brownell brought up Taylor's name when he appeared before the Senate internal security subcommittee in its November 1953 investigation of White's activities. The Attorney General said then that, according to information received by the FBI, a Communist spy ring was anxious to have Taylor in the Treasury Department.

Taylor has sworn he never was a Communist party member. He told the Senate investigations subcommittee more than two years ago that he has "never knowingly been a member of an expionage ring for 172 E. Shanker Men. E. Shanker 464 congressional pressure on the American press."

At the same time, however, they said that "we have been seriously aware of our responsibilities not to flinch from uncovering the activities of subversive elements just because those efforts involved attempted penetration of information and the formation of opinions."
The most prominent of yesterday's witnesses was Benjamin Fine, education editor of the Times. He holds many degrees including doctor of philosophy in education and master of science in journalism. He won a Pulitzer prize in 1944 for articles on teaching American history in schools and colleges. It was evident from the moment he was sworn that Fine was going to be a co-operative witness, in contrast to those who preceded him.

'Heart Wasn't In It.'

Fine said he once was threatened with expulsion from the party for inactivity but dropped out shortly thereafter anyway because, he said, his "heart wasn't in it" and he realized he had made a "tragic mistake." He advised today's students to "keep away from anyone who talks the Communist line."

Fine said that since his one year in the party nearly 20 years ago he had come to realize the movement as a "vicious en-years ago he had come to realize the movement as a "vicious enslavement party." He called the subcommittee's attention to his work against Communist activities in the field of education. Fine said he had been recruited into the party by a secretary in the office of a man he identified as Prof. Clyde Powell, who was in charge of placement and public relations at Teachers College. In response to questions he identified a Dr. James Mendenhall, then at the college, as a person he knew college, as a person he knew to be a Communist when he was a member. He said he did not know where Dr. Mendenhall now is.

A member of the subcommittee staff said a Dr. James Mendenhall was named as a Communist in 1949 by Elizabeth Bentley, a self-styled former courier for the Communists. Admits He Was Red.

Another witness, Alden Whit-man, a copy reader on the Times for about four and one-half years, testified that he had been a Communist party mem-ber from 1935 to 1948 and had been a member of various cells in that period including one at the New York Herald Tribune, where he was employed from where he was employed from 1945 to 1951. He said he also belonged to cells in Bridgeport, Conn., and Buffalo, N.Y., where he was employed on the Buffalo Evening News in 1942-43.

Whitman declined to name ny other persons as Commu-ment from Miss Bentley.

DRIVER KILLED, CAR HITS UTILITY POLE

Five St. Louisans Hurt in Collision on U.S. Highway 40.

Bernard J. Otto, 5046A Pernod avenue, was killed early today when he lost control of his automobile, which crashed into a utility pole and an embankment at Sublett and Arthur avenues.

A witness. Ray Noble, 4029
Parker avenue, told police Otto's car sped around the corner of Fyler avenue and ran down a parkway in the center of Sublett, knocking down two small trees. The machine continued on, Noble said, went over a lawn at 3335 Sublett and into Arthur. The car hit the polés and embankment before coming to a stop. Otto was 21 years old.

the Missouri river. All are St. Louisans.

Bernard S. Evers, 6062 Lucille avenue, the student, was driving east when his car collided with the other machine as he was passing another on a hill, the Missouri Highway Patrol reported. Evers, 22, suffered a chest injury.

Arnold F. Hood, 5611 Maple avenue, driver of the second machine, suffered a fractured left leg. Also injured in the crash were his nieces, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lummers, 6858 West Park avenue. They are Carol, 13 years old, fractured right leg; Marilyn, 11, fractured left leg and face injuries, and Linda, 7, fractured right arm and face injuries.

Iractured right arm and face injuries.

All were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles. Evers's condition was described as grave.

Two persons were injured late yesterday when their automobile collided with a fire truck at Sixth street and Illinois avenue. East St. Louis. No one on the fire engine was hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones, 530 South Clinton street, both suffered chest injuries in the crash. They were taken to St. Mary's Hospital. East St. Louis. Fireman Enos Kinney of Engine Co. No. 2, driver of the truck, told police the truck, on the way to a minor fire, was signaled through the intersection by a man standing in the street. When the fire engine approached the intersection, the Jones automobile darted across, Kinney told police. Mrs. Jones Jones automobile darted across, Kinney told police. Mrs. Jones was thrown from the car and the machine was pushed against a utility pole.

—The Army has forbidden officers and enlisted men with teral in Soviet bloc countries and other sensitive areas, it was disclosed yesterday.

The new regulation restricts travel of officers and enlisted men with the certain secret information to ravel in Soviet bloc countries and other sensitive areas, it was disclosed yesterday.

Possibly Quarles referred to the big B-36 strategic bombers based at Guam.

Quarles said a "substantial increase" is contemplated in planes to be delivered to the Nationalist air force.

He said they would be of advanced type in recognition of the fact that Communist air power opposite Formosa includes the modern MIG-17s.

The secretary said reports that the Communists have a 7000 to 2000-plane air superiority in the Far East fail to consider the global posture of the free world's defense alignment.

"We don't try to answer each local situation." he said. But Quarles stressed that in overall air power the western world is in a strong position in the Formosa strait. He said an attack by Red China against offshore islands would seem "most unwise."

PIANIST UNINSKY SYMPHONY SOLOIST

Plays Tschaikowsky Con-certo in Highly Satisfying Performance.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN

eral years absence from the musical life of this city. The Tschaikowski B Flat Minor Conserto which he chose—or was induced — to play was more amiliar; but the audience reaction clearly indicated that it and not worn out its welcome. Uninsky's performance was narked by the best of judgment, which was revealed in its successful efforts to make be passage work as well as the ig themes sound fluent and rical. Nobody could make the rest and last movements sound if all the parts had a logid, inherent connection. But semeentration was admirably certs.

A strong healthy tone and a vital rhythmical impulse were also important factors in a highly satisfying performance. On the debit side it must be said that some of the passage work was not meticulously clean. The orchestra under Conductor Vladimir Golschmann, provided a spirited accompaniment. Uninsky's encore was a Chopin mazurka.

The orchestra added to the aftractiveness of the occasion with a vividly colored, rhythmically active performance of the eally active performance of the Berlioz "Symphonie Fantas-tigue." Golschmann's concep-tion, which was well realized, took into consideration a kind of feverish quality which lights up the music of the first two movements.

Two short novelties were played at the beginning of the program. The "Little Symphony for the New Year" by the Canadian composer Charles Jones is probably the littlest symphony on record as it takes only three minutes to play three movements. What there was, proved to be quite cheerful and piquant, as if a door leading to a roomful of celebrants had been opened and closed three times. The composer was in the audience and came to the stage to acknowledge the applause.

eme to the stage to acknowl-cige the applause.

Henri Barraud's "La Ker-messe" was a well made work, fairly high in color and with a faint archaic feeling. Though the scene being described was not specified in the program, it was evidently some kind of street fair not unlike the ker-messe scene in Faust. The pro-gram will be repeated tonight. Personal income estimates in-clude wages and salaries, the net income of proprietorships and partnerships — farm and non-farm—as well as dividends and interest, net rents received by landlords, and other types of in-dividual income.

FIRE IN PAGEDALE HOME CAUSES $ 1500 DAMAGE

Fire swept through the attic of a two-story house at 1341 Ferguson avenue, Pagedale, yesterday causing damage estimated by firemen at $1500.

A passerby saw smoke coming from the roof and rang the front doorbell, alerting the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNamee. Three pumpers from the Wellston Fire Department extinguished the flames.

Fire Chief George Rothschild suffered a sprained knee when he fell in the house. Cause of the fire was not determined.

The figure was two billion dellars higher than the annual rate for October, and $20,600,000,000 higher than in November 1954.

The bulk of the October-November rise was in private industry wage and salary disbursements, according to the report prepared by the office of business economies of the Department of Commerce.

Most other types of income, including agricultural income, rose 'moderately, the report showed. Farm Income during November ran at the annual rate of 15 billion dellars, compared with $14,800,000,000 in November 1954.

Heredity Blamed for Increase In Heart Disease Death Rate

Specialist Discounts High-Pressure Living as Cause for Rise-Tells of Tests on Cut in Fats.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP)

—A leading specialist blames heredity more than high-pressure living for the increasing rate of heart deaths. He is Dr. Irvine Page, Cleveland, O., president of the American Heart Association.

"I think that men lived at Heart Association.
"I think that men lived at high pressure ever since they built the pyramids in Egypt," he said. "Something else is responsible for our continued increase in heart deaths.
"About 800,000 are dying of heart disease now, and we have predicted that no less than 1,200,000 will succumb to heart disease in 1960."
Dr. Page addressed yesterday's opening of a 10-day Cavalcade of Health, sponsored by the Los Angeles County Medical Association.

HIS summer I started liking my girl friend's brother. had to go away to school but we didn't write. He had my picture and since I thought I didn't like him any more I asked him for it. About a week ago I saw him in person and asked him again. He wouldn't give it to me so I said some things I now regret. Today, I got my picture. It's in a million pieces and the note that came with it made me feel like dirt. I have written to apologize. Since he's still in town is there anything I can do to make him not hate me?

Apparently you made some pretty drastic statements or he wouldn't have reacted as he did. But be that as it may, I think he was at fault in destroying your picture and sending it back like a spoiled 2-year-old. You have done all you can by apologizing. The next step is up to him. If he doesn't write, there's really nothing more you can do, but I think both you and he should be careful in the future not to let your tempers get the better of you.

* * * Dear Martha:

NOT VERY LONG AGO a boy asked me to go steady. Two days later I heard that I was supposed to have asked him. I didn't pay much attention to it but today he opened purse where I had his ring, took it out and put it on his finger. I asked if he were going to keep it and he didn't answer. I love him very much. Please don't tell me to stop DESPERATE loying him but I need your help.

I can't tell you to forget him, but it looks as though he has called the whole thing off, and there's not much a girl can do in a case like that. I must admit he used a particularly discourteous method of getting his ring back, and if he acts like that, maybe it's just as well that he's out

Work Is Necessary

By Angelo Patri

VERYBODY KNOWS, and says, that children must be kept occupied as happily, as usefully as possible, in order that they may mature as healthy useful members of society. But the hard fact remains that in this country today our boys and girls are not, as a group, given the opportunity to keep

people, the children and the adolescent group were kept busy as a matter of necessity. The work of farm and garden, coops, stables and barns, and the house, had to be done and ANGELO PATRI they were held responsible for a good part of it. There was little time for amusement, and what we of today call recreation was scarcely heard about. Yet children grew into healthy manhood and womanhood and there were few delinquents. * * * THOSE DAYS, with their good ways and their less good ones, are gone and with them the work for growing boys Better food, better medical care, better home backgrounds have helped rear a nation of taller, heavier and healthier youth. Physically they are in fine shape; morally and spiritually, not quite as well fitted. Character grows under the stimulus of self-discipline, and there can be little of that when children find it hard to feel needed in any special place or in any special circumstance. In days past, the girls in the family knew they were needed to help with the baby, with the errands, with the - part cooking and the dishes and the like; the boys knew their father depended on them for help about the house and the barns. Often they had to forget about pleasure and attend to duty. Attending to duty, filled one's place regardless all of pleasanter ideas, makes for character and maturity. It also creates skill and knowledge and a general worthwhileness in the doer.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE today are not allowed, generally spgaking, to learn to work. Our laws forbid it, our schools deplore the idea, our whole society is set against childrenthat is adolescent's-some of them as mature physically as ever they will be and as far advanced in school as ever they will be. They must stay in school, even if they mark time until their birthday rolls around to free them.

When that day comes, greatly to the relief of the teachers and the pupil, where is he to go? He has not been prepared for work, has not been disciplined for work, has not been given a chance to perfect a skill or even to gain knowledge about one, so he is on the loose end that spells trouble

Work, creative work if possible, but work that is instructive and useful stimulates intelligence and matures character in children. This hard fact must be acknowl edged by school and society.

At the Movies

NOTHER in Hollywood's long, long trail of westerns A that plod along the worn-out path of standard horseopera fare is "Top Gun" opening today at the Orpheum. It stars Sterling Hayden as the sharp-shooting trigger artist who is constantly beset by young upstarts who dream of fame with wild notions of knocking off the top gun. But, almost always, Sterling steps aside.

The story, if perchance you're interested, has Gunman Hayden returning to his old home town of Casper, Wyo. A fine welcome, indeed. Stopping at the ceme-tery to view his mother's grave, he finds a hole ready and

One good turn deserves another, so Hayden informs the local marshal that the town is due to be raided by outlaws on the following morn. After one gunfight, Hayden is jailed and the town raided. Naturally, the cell doors are opened and it is the top gun who whips the outlaws, tually single-handed. Not quite, though, for digging into the westerns of the past, we again see a gun-shy maiden, in this case Karen Booth, pulling the trigger at a crucial moment and ending up with the star as a prize One nice feature, you have to admit, is the fact that the film runs for only 73 minutes—good time, even for a runof-the-mill horse opera.

HAM ROLLS AND YAMS COMBINE FOR AN ATTRACTIVE, EASY AND TASTY MEAL. YAMS ARE PLENTIFUL AND AT THEIR BEST IN THE MARKETS RIGHT NOW.

THE flavors of ham and yam complement each other as apparently do the two words when used together. The Louisiana yam, by the way, is at its best just now. It is moist, sweet and golden color.

Yams bake well and compar-atively quickly, and we like them in this simple form with baked or pan-fried ham. Often, however, you will have a cup or two of the meat that clings to the bone after the ham has been served hot from the oven or cold and sliced. This meat is suitable to make into small loaves that, after baking, can be served with candied canned vams.

If there is not enough ham half a pound of sausage meat can be mixed with the leftover cooked meat and the other ingredients. A mixture of brown

West knew that another heart lead would give declarer a ruff-and-discard, so he made the only return that could give the defense a chance, a diamond. On his lead of the four-spot, however, South ducked in dummy, captured East's jack, and then took the marked finesse against the diamond queen, fulfilling the slam contract. Obviously, if South held both the king and jack of diamonds, west had to surrender; hence West had to hope that East held at least the diamond jack. That being so, West's only correct lead was the nine of diamonds. Observe the inevitable effect. Dummy's ten would have to be played to give South any chance. East could cover ♦K86 any chance. East could cover in turn with the jack, and South would win. But now West's Q-7 of diamonds would be a tenace over South's 8-6, and declarer would be forced to lose a diamond trick and the contract.

Comment on Freedom of Expression

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

T HURSDAY morning I came upon the lead editorial in the New York Times and ever since I have been applauding the courage of that editorial editorial. To say that you do not be-lieve in irre-deemable guilt and that you will consider each individual case that comes

case that comes before you and be your own judge as to Mrs. Roosevelt whom you will hire for your paper requires a great deal of courage in the changed atmosphere that has come about since the advent

* * * TO ADD that the attack on the New York Times has been because of its outspoken atti-titude on segregation and vari-ous other obvious wrongs and that in spite of this action you that in spite of this action you through your newspaper, will go on speaking the truth as you see it and express your beliefs no matter whether it does bring this sort of attack on you also takes courage. Every American citizen who believes in preserving our freedoms will stand up and applaud such courage.

I also read that the chairman of this senatorial subcommittee, Senator Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, said he was not attacking any special paper. He maintained he was only trying to find out what influence Communism has or had on the people writing for newspapers. But I heard some of the questions asked during the secret committee hearings and I can only say that like so many other investigations the tactics seem somewhat intimidating.

THIS is no honest effort to gather information. This is an effort to prove a point of view already held because of stands taken on special subjects. We should defend the freedom of our newspapers to express their points of view freely.

I have frequently found myself differing violently with certain newspapers in this country, but I would not have had them suppressed just because I differed with them. And I think it is encouraging to find the New York Times standing up for freedom of the press and of the men who write for the press. Unless there is freedom of expression in this country, something very valuable will be lost forever.

NOT so very many years ago about the only people who bothered about the relative humidity of the air in a house during the cold weather were a few heating engineers.

If the humidity—the amount of moisture in the air—is too low, it's not good from the health standpoint. If the humidity is too high, you will get a condensation problem — wet window glass, damp walls and care to be of much help unless you know what the correct amount of humidity should be and this varies according to the outside air temperature. For example, when the outside air is above 10 degrees, the inside relative humidity with the inside air temperature at 70 degrees. When the outside temperature gets down to around zero, the inside humidaround zero, the inside humid ity should be about 25 per cen and it drops down 5 per cent from here for every 10-degree drop in temperature.

If you find that the humidity is too high for a certain out-side temperature, it can be lowered by ventilating to the out-side either through exhaust fans or by opening storm wing dows or the regular window

"I didn't hear you say any-thing about getting married. Maybe I wasn't listening care-fully," Jan said coldly.

Jan stared at him.

"Is it?" Jan asked. "Isn't the main thing to prove that I had no part in those robberies and that I was framed by someone who planted that figurine in my closet?"

To Jan it wasn't funny. Kate changed her attitude.

"What's the matter? You got no mouthpiece to spring you? It's easy the first time when you haven't a record."

"I'm sort of mixed up. Maybe I'd better think it over."
"I'm sure you should."
The matron came into the visitor's room. "Time's up."
she announced. "This is not regular visiting hours."
"Goodby, Jan," Guy said

"I'll not chedge my mind on those terms, ever," Jan replied.

He got up slowly and turned away from her.

"Come on," the matron told her. "I've got work to do. You're not supposed to have visitors now. That guy must have a drag."

"Not with me, he hasn't," Jan said emphatically.

ALTHOUGH newspaper comic strips as we know them to-

RE people still reading the funnies? According to a recent bulletin from the newly formed Newspaper Comics Gouncil, about 100,000,000 Americans turn to the comic pages of their newspapers every day.

Children under 10 still account for a large part of this newspaper comics audience, with nearly 90 per cent of them listed as regular followers, according to surveys. But it may be surprising to note that Mother and Dad are more likely than not to be reading the funnies right along with them, since four out of five adults also find time every day for the funnies.

to appear in the forms they are published today - with ic strips as we know them today are almost entirely American in origin, they do have "ancestors" going back as far as any other form of popular art. We know, for example, that cave dwellers scrawled cartoons of their histories upon walls with charcoal. Later, stories were told in picture are published today — with words and pictures, and with "balloons" over the various characters. At this time there are 161 individual comic-page features, of which newspapers sually print between 12 and so strips every day. There is only one metropolitan daily newspaper in the country that publishes no comics.
